Meet the Investigator Wake Up Session: A: Delayed vs Immediate Re-transplant; July 3, 2023; 7:00am-8:00am

Dr. Richard (Shane) Mangus is a professor of surgery at Indiana University School of Medicine. He is the director of the intestine rehabilitation and transplant program, which recently performed its 300th transplant since starting the program in 2003. The Indiana program is known for expanding indications for complex multiorgan transplants, including in cases of portomesenteric thrombosis and metastatic neuroendocrine tumors. Dr. Mangus also has extensive experience in re-transplantation of the intestine.
